

Photo Caption Sheet

Strategic Marketing Services
Jody Newman (843) 406-9800

American Tour Golf Schools
Charleston National Country Club
4157 Victory Point Drive
Mt. Pleasant, SC 29466
(843) 881-1071
www.americantourgolfschools.com

Contact: Owner, David Forbes, III

PHOTOGRAPHER CREDIT: Matthew Scott – Charleston, SC

Image #1 (1 ATGS.tif)

Kim Young, head instructor for American Tour Golf School uses Swing Motion Trainer to analyze specific swing positions and spine angle of Charleston National's assistant pro, Jason Robinson as instructor Mike Kearns looks on.

Image #2 (10 ATGS.tif)

Kim Young, head instructor for American Tour Golf School drives his golf ball down the school's practice range.

Image #3 (11 ATGS.tif)

Kim Young, head instructor for American Tour Golf School hits balls on Swing Motion as PGA Instructor Mike Lucas looks on at computer terminal.

Image #4 (12 ATGS.tif)

American Tour Golf School line-up of students and instructors driving golf balls on school's practice range.

Image #5 (13 ATGS.tif)

American Tour Golf School head instructor, Kim Young and PGA instructor Mike Lucas drive golf balls on range of one-of-a-kind golf school.

Image #6 (14 ATGS.tif)

Racks and mirrors used by students and instructors at American Tour Golf Schools to train students in the correct rotary golf swing motion.

American Tour Golf Schools
Photo Caption Sheet
Page 2 of 3

Image #7 (15 ATGS.tif)

American Tour Golf School head instructor, Kim Young uses half rack and mirrors to train ATGS student, John Aarndt from Kalamazo, MI in the correct rotary golf swing motion.

Image #8 (16 ATGS.tif)

Kim Young, head instructor for American Tour Golf School uses Swing Motion Trainer to analyze specific swing positions and spine angle of Charleston National's assistant pro, Jason Robinson.

Image #9 (17 ATGS.tif)

Kim Young, head instructor for American Tour Golf School uses Swing Motion Trainer to analyze specific swing positions and spine angle of Charleston National's assistant pro, Jason Robinson.

Image # 10 (18 ATGS.tif)

Kim Young, head instructor for American Tour Golf School uses Swing Motion Trainer to analyze specific swing positions and spine angle of Charleston National's assistant pro, Jason Robinson as instructor Mike Lucas looks on.

Image # 11 (19 ATGS.tif)

Kim Young, head instructor for American Tour Golf School uses Swing Motion Trainer to analyze specific swing positions and spine angle of Charleston National's assistant pro, Jason Robinson as instructor Mike Lucas looks on.

Image # 12 (2 ATGS.tif)

Kim Young, director of golf instruction for American Tour Golf School uses Swing Solutions Video Analyzer to check the swing of Charleston National's assistant pro, Jason Robinson.

Image #13 (20 ATGS.tif)

American Tour Golf School head instructor, Kim Young uses half rack and mirror to train ATGS student, John Aarndt from Kalamazo, MI in the correct rotary golf swing motion.

Image #14 (21 ATGS.tif)

American Tour Golf School head instructor, Kim Young uses half rack and mirror to train ATGS student, John Aarndt from Kalamazo, MI in the correct rotary golf swing motion.

American Tour Golf Schools
Photo Caption Sheet
Page 3 of 3

Image # 15 (22 ATGS.tif)

Kim Young, director of golf instruction for American Tour Golf School uses Swing Solutions Video Analyzer to check the swing of Charleston National's assistant pro, Jason Robinson.

Image #16 (23 ATGS.tif)

Director of golf Kim Young, American Tour Golf School instructing Charleston National assistant professional, Jason Robinson on proper technique on the Swing Motion Trainer.

Image #17 (3 ATGS.tif)

American Tour Golf School director of golf instruction, Kim Young uses Video Golf Coach to critique performance of Charleston National's assistant Pro, Jason Robinson.

Image #18 (4 ATGS.tif)

Former PGA tour pro and director of golf instruction, Kim Young at American Tour Golf School putts as instructor, Mike Kearns evaluates his stroke on the Swing Dynamics Putting Monitor.

Image #19 (5 ATGS.tif)

Entrance sign at Charleston National Country Club, the site American Tour Golf School is located.

Image 20 (6 ATGS.tif)

American Tour Golf School's golf sports psychologist, Dr. Scott Dryer evaluating ATGS student John Aarndt from Kalamazoo, MI.

Image 21 (7 ATGS.tif)

American Tour Golf School consultant, Dr. Patrick Smith tests Charleston National assistant Jason Robinson on his vision skills.

Image 22 (8 ATGS)

Kim Young, head instructor for American Tour Golf School drives his golf ball toward the targets on the school's driving range.

Image 23 (9 ATGS)

Kim Young, head instructor for American Tour Golf School drives his golf ball down the school's practice range.